Priority Health Needs

Improve Access to Care - Provide access to health care and coverage programs for low-income and uninsured people.

Increase Access to Affordable, Healthy Food - Support the development of sustainable, healthy eating practices and programs that serve low-income communities. Educate and inspire children, teens, and adults to make healthier choices.

Ensure Safe and Healthy Environments - Reduce violence, promote resiliency, and increase involvement in programs among at-risk youth. Increase access to and use of safe public recreational spaces.

Improve Access to Behavioral Health Care Services - Increase the use of preventive behavioral health programs among low-income, at-risk youth.

Examples of the Difference We Make

Abode Services received a $30,000 grant from Kaiser Permanente to improve access to behavioral and mental health care for homeless individuals, while helping them get preventive primary care, manage medications, and avoid crises. A total of 13 Health and Wellness Team members were trained and served 108 currently or formerly homeless people living with significant mental health issues and other complex needs. Ninety-three percent those served had fewer incidence of institutionalization.

In addition, Alameda County Family Justice Center received $90,000 to implement STEP-UP, a program to empower family violence survivors by offering computer and financial literacy training, professional development classes, empowerment workshops, and English as a Second Language tutoring.
